VALIDATION

Commissioning Agents, Inc. is a highly respected provider of technical services for biotech and pharmaceutical manufacturers worldwide. CAI focuses on the manufacturing process, with services including commissioning, validation, technology transfer, PAT, maintenance programs, SOPs, training, and cGMP compliance. We have experts in automation, cleaning, regulatory compliance, project management, and more. If you need to deliver an entire facility, or simply a piece of equipment on a tight schedule, we can do it. We don't simply talk the language, we are in the forefront of industry changes, most recently helping to write the new ASTM E2500 standard. CAI is employee-owned, and does not use subcontractors or 1099 workers. Our dedicated, client-oriented teams are what has caused our business to grow steadily over the past 14 years. Over 90% of our work comes from existing, satisfied customers. Your goals are our priority. Commissioning Agents ... helping meet your business objectives and compliance requirements.

VALVES

Since its inception in 1996, Aquasyn's goal has been to break new ground, not retrace the steps of other diaphragm valve manufacturers. Our extensive process engineering and manufacturing experience has enabled us to provide our customers with standard as well as customized valves and associated components which are original and of uncompromising quality. Aquasyn's longstanding focus has been innovation that increases productivity for its customers. Our product improvements and responsiveness to customer demand have been our primary means of marketing. First with hybrid diaphragm valve products, and more recently with ARTeSYN™ arterial and sample valve products, this continues to be the case.

- ◆ Technical differences that are obvious.
- ◆ Quality that you can touch.
- ◆ Customized products of uncompromising execution.
- ◆ Improvements that make you ask, "Why didn't I think of that?"
- ◆ Customer service that is refreshingly simple.
- ◆ Marketed and sold through local companies that you already know.

Experience the Aquasyn Difference.
